To
My wife and daughter

One of the first families to settle permanently on Wolfe Island, Ontario, Canada, or Long Island as it was then called, was that of Samuel Hinckley who came in 1801. His ancestry was obscured by tradition, until the late attorney Leonard V. Webb of Rochester, N. Y. established his lineage back to Samuel Hinckley who came to New England in 1635. Mr. Webb was a great-great-grandson of Samuel of "The Island". The author is indebted to Mr. Webb for much of the information given in the first six generations of this record, while that on the others has been accumulated by him during several years of research. Those interested in information on connecting lines may find it in "The Compendium of American Genealogy", Vol. 8, and in manuscript form in these libraries: Grosvenor Library, Buffalo, N. Y., The New England Historic Genealogical Society Library, Boston, Mass., and the Reuben McMillan Library, Youngstown, Ohio.

HINCKLEY—SPINNING—HORNE—BALL—CASS

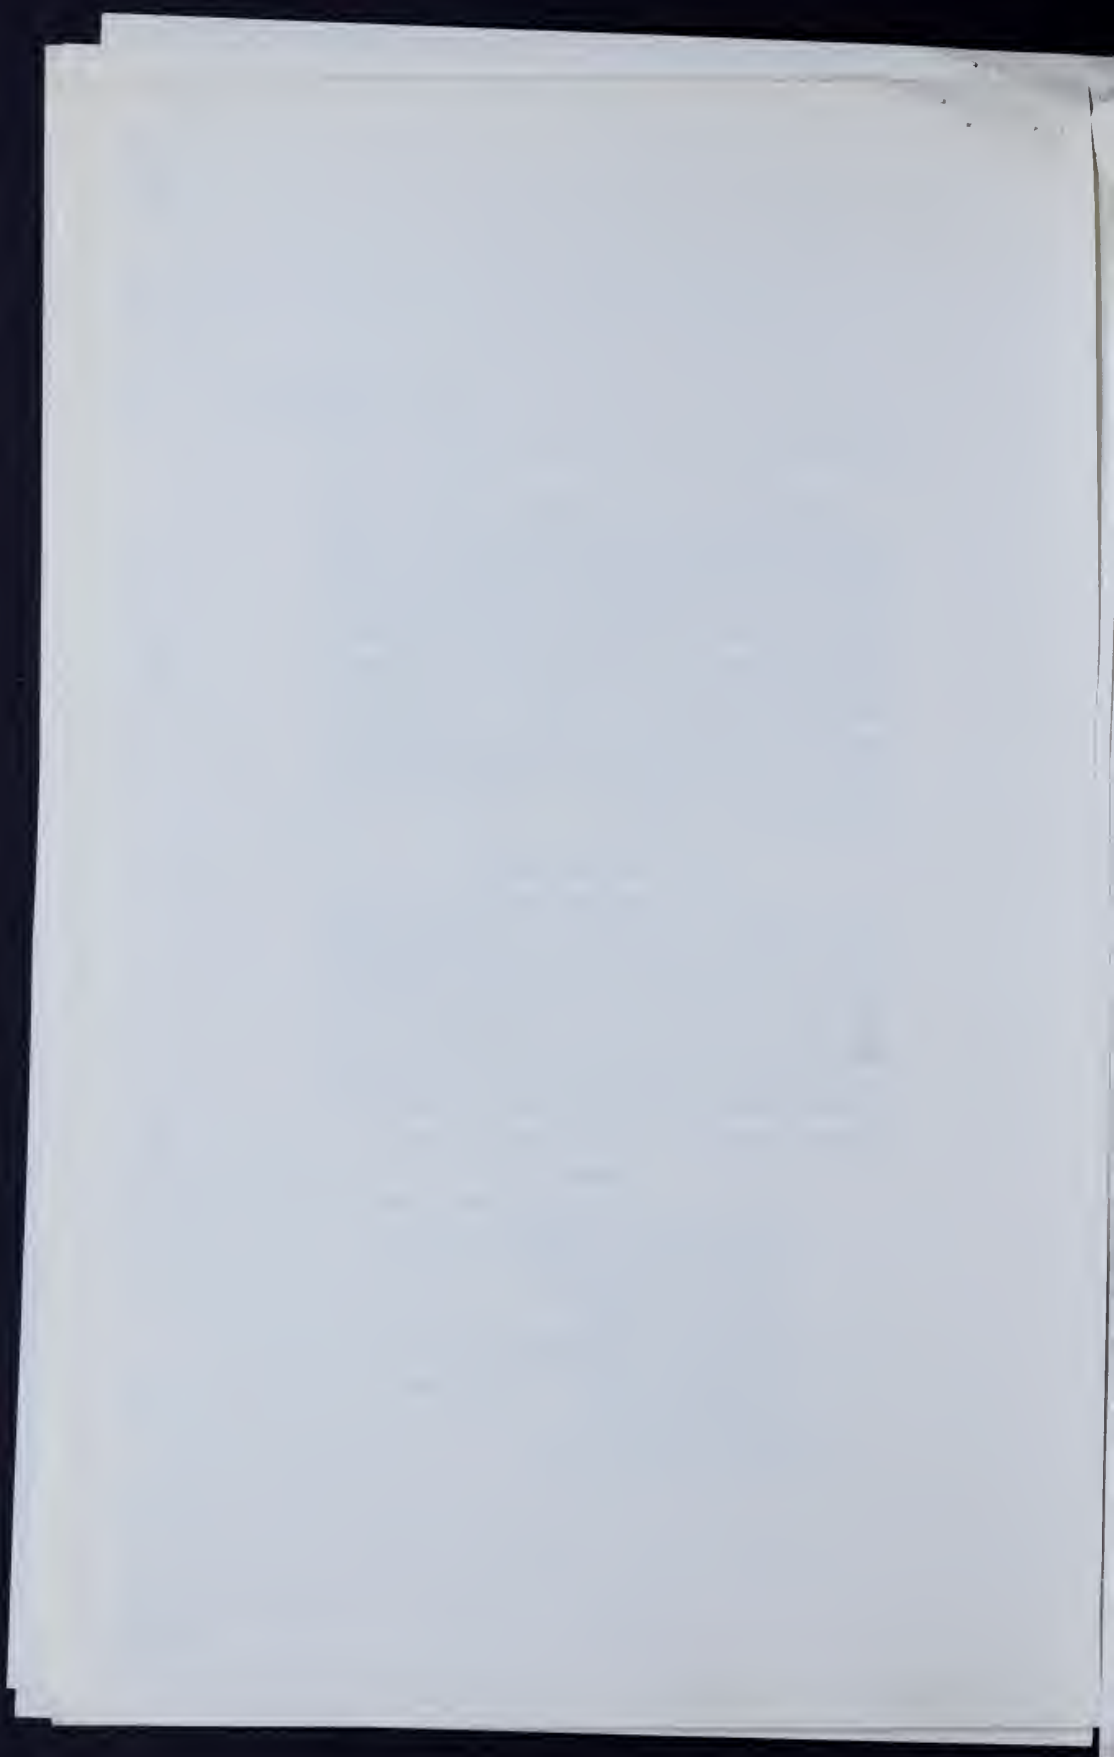

In the spring of 1635, Samuel Hinckley, together with a group of one hundred and two persons of Tenterden, Kent, England, resolved to emigrate to America. They sailed from Sandwich in March in the ship "Hercules", a boat of two hundred tons displacement. He brought his wife, Sarah, and four children, and after arriving in Boston went to Scituate, built a house, and resided there until 1640. At that time, he removed to Barnstable, Mass. and was a founder and respected citizen of that community. Although he was not a man of great prominence, he held minor offices and came to be called "Mr." Hinckley which was considered to be a title of distinction at that time.

FIRST GENERATION

1. SAMUEL HINCKLEY was baptized May 25, 1589 at Tenterden, Kent, England. He married his first wife, Sarah, on May 16, 1617. She died on August 18, 1656 at Barnstable, Mass., and he married Bridget Bodfish, widow of Robert, as his second wife. Samuel died October 31, 1662. A part of his will reads, "to my wife, Bridget, the use of the house, a garden, and some land; my two cows, Prosper and Thrivewell; and all the household stuff she brought with her." Samuel's son, Thomas, was governor of the Plymouth Colony.

Children

2. Thomas, born in 1618 in England; married Mary Richards as his first wife

SECOND GENERATION

12. JOHN HINCKLEY was born at Barnstable on May 24, 1644. He was well educated for the time and was a person of considerable prominence in the community, being an ensign in the militia, an office of honor. On July 14, 1668, he married as his first wife, Bethiah, a daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Learned-Ewer) Lothrop and grand-daughter of Rev. John Lothrop. She was baptized at Barnstable on July 23, 1649 and died July 10, 1697. John then married Mary Goodspeed, widow of Benjamin. Ensign Hinckley died at Great Marshes, Barnstable on Dec. 7, 1709. In his will he mentioned the children named below and referred to his eldest son, Samuel, of Stonington. Probably the last three were of the second marriage.

Children

SIXTH GENERATION

34. SAMUEL HINCKLEY was born at Pittstown, N. Y. on May 2, 1770 and in about 1789 married, Mary, a daughter of Nabath and Mary (Brewer) Brown who was born August 28, 1771 and died at Cape Vincent, N. Y. around 1845. Samuel went to Herkimer County, N. Y. when a boy and lived there until 1798, when he went to Ogdensburg with his wife and three children. He engaged in lumbering there, and in 1801 he removed to Wolfe Island, Ontario, Can. opposite the City of Kingston. His was one of the first families to settle on "The Island" and the village of Marysville was named after a daughter, Mary. In 1815, after accumulating a sizable fortune in the lumbering business, Samuel and his family left Wolfe Island and returned to Rome, N. Y. by the way of Lake Ontario, the Oswego River, Oneida Lake, and the Mohawk River. In 1818, he lost his wealth as the result of some wild speculation and, with all of his worldly possessions in a lumber wagon, returned over land to "The Island". He settled on the east side of the island opposite Cape Vincent and acquired a ninety-nine year lease on property which is still owned by some of his descendants. He was a successful farmer and engaged in the ferrying business between Wolfe Island and Cape Vincent as well as in sailing the St. Lawrence River. Around 1840 he moved to Cape Vincent where he died late in 1849. His will, executed Aug. 17, 1850, provided for the disposal of his Wolfe Island farm to a son, Coleman, and a son-in-law, Demetreus Spinning, who had married a daughter, Olivia. The children listed below were named in the will made by Samuel.

Children

41. Mary (Polly); born Nov. 19, 1789; married first ---- Davis, second Archibald Hitchcock
42. Minerva, born May 10, 1795; married Nicholas Mosier

To
My wife and daughter

During the summer of 1944, while talking with Laura (Moore) (Hinckley) Horne, wife of Robert Bruce Horne of Wolfe Island, Ontario, about the origin of the Spinning family, she made this statement. "The Spinnings are supposed to have been descendants of someone on the Mayflower." This remark was noted by the author, but was passed by as a probable bit of local tradition which had come down through the generations. Early in June, 1948, as the result of a query in the genealogical page of the Hartford Times of Hartford, Connecticut, Mrs. Edythe M. Thoesen of Boulder, Colorado, who is a descendant of John Spinning, brother of Daniel, furnished the information that the mother of Demetreus Spinning was Jerusha Standish of Ashfield, Massachusetts who had married Daniel, as his first wife. In July, Angeline Horne of Bath, Ontario, was asked about the matter and she recalled having heard her grandmother, Angeline (Spinning) Horne, say that her family "went back to the Mayflower". This was the beginning of a long and interesting search which has proved the Mayflower descent statement. A study of deeds, wills, Bibles, vital records, and settlements of estates has established it. Many thanks are due Mrs. Thoesen for the information she offered which made the solution to the problem possible, and also to Mr. Lee H. Broason of Ashfield, whose interest and help aided greatly. Although he had no direct connection with the family, he gave freely of his time and energy, and the day spent with him in June 1949 traveling over the land which was once the property of the Spinning and Standish families in Ashfield will long be remembered as a delightful one.

MYLES STANDISH ANCESTRY OF ADA CASS

At the top of the second column of the page listing "the names of those which came over first, in ye year 1620" in Bradfords History of "Plimoth Plantation" is the brief entry, "Captain Myles Standish, and Rose, his wife." Though not a member of the Leyden Congregation, Myles Standish sailed in the Mayflower to Massachusetts in 1620, and became a prominent figure in the affairs of the group. During the first winter his wife died, and the fictional account of his attempt to secure another partner has been made familiar by the poet Longfellow in "The Courtship of Myles Standish". Captain Standish was the military leader of the colony for many years and its treasurer for a considerable time. The high regard with which he was held by the Pilgrims was shown by Bradford many times. He was mentioned in connection with the party sent out November 15, 1620 to explore Cape Cod, "being 16. of them under ye conduct of Captain Standish". This tribute, "without any grudging in ye least, Tow of these 7. were Mr. William Brewster, & Myles Standish, ther Captein & military comander", was paid to him, as a result of his efforts during the great illness of the first winter. When starvation faced the colony "ye latter end of September". Captain Standish again led a party to Cape Cod, "thinking to go aboute ye Cap where some store of corne might be got". Again in 1623, when Weston had irritated the Indians, they "dispatched a boate with Capten Standish to rescue them". He was sent to England to try to adjust the financial problems of the colony, but had little success. Finally, Bradford tells of the governor sending him to arrest the undesirable Mr. Morton who was causing trouble within the colony. At that time, Morton and his rousters made an attempt to kill Myles, but were intoxicated and failed to carry out their intentions and were disarmed and taken into custody.

FIRST GENERATION

1. CAPTAIN MYLES STANDISH was born in England about 1585. The full name of his wife, Rose, has not been learned. They joined the band of Pilgrims sailing from England on the Mayflower. Rose died in January of the first winter, being one of over half of the group to perish before spring. Sometime between July 1623 and March 24, 1624, Myles remarried, Barbara, whose last name has not been learned. She was the mother of his children and died about October 6, 1659. In 1632 the Standish family moved from Plymouth to Duxbury, Massachusetts where Myles died on October 3, 1656. A tall monument has been erected to his memory and the Standish house is preserved as a memorial to this great colonial personage.

FOURTH GENERATION

19. MILES STANDISH was born November 18, 1709 at Preston. He went to Mansfield where he married Jerusha, daughter of Mathew and Elizabeth Fuller, on November 2, 1737. Two sons were born to them at Mansfield and there were probably other children whose names have not been found. Sometime before 1758, Miles went to Stafford, Connecticut where he was known to have been active in the Baptist Society, having been a signer of two documents in May of that year: one a petition for the benefits of the Act of Toleration for the members of the Society, and the other an articles of agreement concerning admission of members. In December 1758, Miles and Israel Standish were recorded as having settled in the Town of Ashfield, Massachusetts. A deed to the property on file at Northampton, Massachusetts reads, "Israel Standish bought of John Alden, Jr. both of Stafford." Around 1768, Miles assisted in establishing the Baptist Church at Ashfield and brought his letter from Stafford. Before Miles moved to Ashfield, his wife, Jerusha, had died and he had remarried Hannah, whose full name has not been found. She died at Ashfield on October 10, 1772. Seven months later, on April 21, 1773, Miles married widow Mehitabel Orcutt. She belonged to the Congregational Church at Ashfield and probably came from Stafford, since that was where the Orcutt family lived. There is no record of Miles' death at Ashfield which indicates that he moved away and died elsewhere, possibly at Cummington which is not far distant and where Standishes were known to live.

FIFTH GENERATION

22. ISRAEL STANDISH was born at Mansfield on April 22, 1738. No record has been found of his Stafford residence, except that he purchased land in December 1758 in Ashfield from John Alden, Jr. and the deed says he was of Stafford. Israel and Miles settled in what was called the Baptist Corners section of the Town of Ashfield. Both paid taxes, but Israel paid the larger amount showing that he owned the property. He married Elizabeth Partarich (Partridge?) in 1764, according to the intentions recorded in Ashfield. He served in the army during the American Revolution from Ashfield in Colonel Elisha Porter's Hampshire County regiment in Captain Benjamin Phillips' company. The date of Elizabeth's death is not recorded, but it occurred sometime before November 1794, at which time Israel married Sarah, widow of Nathaniel Harvey. She survived him and was mentioned in the settlement of his estate in April 1806.

In June 1949 the author and family visited the place at Ashfield where Israel and Miles had built their home and lived. The woman living on the farm related an interesting account of an Indian raid upon the Standish family as she had heard it years before from a woman then past ninety years of age. The family was about to eat its meal when a band of Indians appeared. They left the house and fled over the hill into the woods, expecting to see their buildings destroyed. However, that did not happen and when they thought it safe, they returned and found that only the food which had been prepared and the stores of provision had been taken. This was an especially interesting story, because the kitchen of the house on the premises was a part of the original house built by Israel. Another old building, the barn, had been there since the time of the first settlement, and it was known by the children around the neighborhood as "Myles Standish."

SIXTH GENERATION

24. JERUSHA STANDISH was born at Ashfield on November 4, 1765 and married Daniel, son of Nathaniel and Thankful (Benton) Spinning on March 13, 1788. Soon after their marriage, they left Ashfield and may have gone into nearby Vermont, but by 1790 were in Oneida County, N.Y., where Daniel and Jerusha bought land in that year. In 1797, Daniel was elected Supervisor of the Town of Western in that county. According to the deed to their property which is filed at the office of the Oneida County, Clerk at Utica, N.Y., Daniel Spinning and his wife, Jerusha, sold it on April 23, 1803. The History of Jefferson County, N.Y. mentions Daniel Spinning as having come from Oneida County in 1804 to the Town of Lyme. Later the part in which he settled was made the Town of Cape Vincent. Sometime before February 9, 1808, the family moved from Cape Vincent to the Town of Rutland in Jefferson County. It was on that date that Daniel married his second wife, Betsey Stafford, the widow of James. Jerusha had died sometime after April 1806, because she was named in the settlement of her father's estate at Ashfield. Just where and when she died is not known, but it is likely that the family was in Rutland at the time and that she was buried, as was probably so with Daniel, in the old cemetery known as the Woodworth Cemetery or sometimes as the Reed Cemetery located in the Town of Rutland near the settlement of East Rodman. Daniel lived until February 24, 1833 at which time his death occurred according to the Bible record. His estate was settled the following year.

The travels of Daniel and his family were quite extensive when one considers the time and methods of transportation. The trip would have been by ox cart, on horse back, or on foot. The journey from Ashfield around and over the mountains of western Massachusetts and eastern New York would have been a difficult one, until the

Hudson and Mohawk River valleys were reached. From there on up to Oneida County by the Mohawk Valley, it would have been long, but rather easy, because of the water level route. The trip must have consumed several weeks of time and must have provided many perils and adventures. In 1804, when Daniel left Oneida for the St. Lawrence River region, he again undertook a trip through the wilderness which must have had its problems, because at that time there were very few white men in that part of New York. And finally, the last of the moves was made to Rutland.

SEVENTH GENERATION

35. DEMETREUS SPINNING was born in Oneida County, N.Y. on June 10, 1803. He must have lived with his brother, Othniel, at Cape Vincent, or at least stayed there some of the time, because he would not have met his wife, Olivia Hinckley from Wolfe Island, had he lived with his parents in Rutland. She was a daughter of Samuel and Mary (Brown) Hinckley who were prominent early settlers of that Canadian island lying between Cape Vincent, N.Y. and Kingston, Ontario. Demetreus and Olivia were married at Cape Vincent on March 29, 1829. They lived on Wolfe Island and at the death of Olivia's father, inherited substantial properties which are still in the possession of their descendants. Demetreus died on Wolfe Island on February 4, 1861 and was buried in the Hinckley Point Cemetery. Olivia lived until December 16, 1888. She was buried in the same cemetery, not beside her husband, but in the lot of her daughter's family, the Hornes. Just why this happened is surrounded by some mystery. It appears, however, that Demetreus was a man who had little use the church. So when Olivia died the family may have decided that she should not be buried in the Spinning plot, but in another.

EIGHTH GENERATION

45. ANGELINE SPINNING was born on Wolfe Island, Ontario, Canada (then the Province of Upper Canada) on December 31, 1833. She married Thomas Darrell, son of Thomas D. and Louise (Shannan) Horne of Wolfe Island on January 20, 1852 at Millens Bay, N.Y. They lived on Wolfe Island on the Horne property, until the death of Demetreus Spinning, after which they came to live with Angeline's mother, Olivia, at the end of Hinckley Point opposite Cape Vincent. Thomas ran the farm and operated a ferry from Wolfe Island to Cape Vincent. On election night, November 13, 1884, Thomas Horne and his son, William, together with six residents of Wolfe Island rowed across the St. Lawrence River to Cape Vincent in two boats to attend the celebration of the election of President Grover Cleveland. During that evening a storm swept over the river. In spite of this, the party in their two boats set out in the night to return to Wolfe Island. One boat was occupied by Thomas and three other men, while the other boat was manned by the son, William, and the remaining three of the party. Thomas started first and William set out soon after and overtook his father's boat. While nearby he heard his father calling for help, but paid no heed, because he knew that his father was an able oarsman and also knew that he was given to playing pranks. Consequently, William and his party passed his father's boat and continued on to Wolfe Island. The boat containing Thomas and the other three never arrived at its destination. Days later, searching parties found the battered boat with a hole driven through its bottom washed upon the shore of Carleton Island a few miles down the river. The bodies of two of the men in the ill fated boat were found, but those of Thomas Horne and the fourth passenger were never recovered from the river. This recounting of the tragedy was made by William, the son, to the author during the summer of 1944. After the death of her husband, Angeline continued to reside on the farm and direct the affairs of the ferry, with the help of William. On December 21, 1904, while visiting at the home of her daughter, Myrtilla (Horne) Ball at Watertown, N.Y. she passed away. Her body was returned to the Island where it was buried beside that of her mother and others of the Horne family.

53. MYRTILLA HORNE was born on Wolfe Island on March 8, 1865. When a young woman, she went to Watertown, N.Y. to visit in the home of Marcus Reed, son of Lewis who had married Betsey Angeline, the daughter of Daniel and Betsey (Stafford) Spinning, and half sister of her grandfather, Demetreus Spinning. While at the home of Mr. Reed, she secured employment in the home of Edward and Eliza (Howell) Ball, and there met their son, Henry, whom she married at Watertown on October 27, 1885. Henry C. Ball was born on June 26, 1861. He was a cheesemaker and successful farmer and dairyman for many years. He died on January 22, 1930. Myrtilla continued to reside on the farm until the time of her death on April 28, 1947, which occurred while she was visiting in the home of her daughter, Beulah (Ball) Cass at New Castle, Pennsylvania.

TENTH GENERATION

59. BEULAH AILEEN BALL was born in the Town of Watertown, Jefferson County, N.Y. on November 27, 1898. After completing high school at Watertown, she entered the Potsdam State Teachers College at Potsdam, N.Y. and specialized in art education. After graduation, she was a teacher and supervisor of art for several years in schools in New York State. While engaged in her profession, she continued her studies at Albany State Teachers College, the Berkshire Summer School of Art, and Cornell University, and later, at the University of Pittsburgh. She was descended through the Ball side of her family from Alling Ball who came to Connecticut around 1630 with five of his brothers. One, William, went to Virginia and became the grandfather of Mary Ball, the mother of George Washington. Early knowledge of this, created a desire on her part to learn more about her antecedents. As a result, she and her husband became interested and a considerable volume of data has resulted. She belongs to the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (311812), the National Society of the Daughters of American Colonists (6682), and the Society of Mayflower Descendants. She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star, and of the Presbyterian Church.

On June 1, 1926, she married Earle Millard Cass at New York City. He was born at Palermo, Oswego County, N.Y. on July 20, 1901, a son of Millard Earl and Dora Lillian (Knight) Cass. Upon graduation from high school at Mexico, N.Y., he entered the Oswego State Teachers College at Oswego, N.Y. and studied industrial teacher training. For several years, he taught at Waterford, N.Y., and in 1925, he entered Columbia University, and in June 1926, completed the work for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Vocational Education. During the following two years, he was an instructor at the University of Pittsburgh. While there, he completed the work for the degree of Master of Arts in Vocational Education, receiving the second degree of its kind to be granted by that institution. After leaving the university, he held the position of Assistant to the Director of the General Motors Institute of Technology at Flint, Michigan for a time, and then went to Hartford, Connecticut as a member of the State Department of Education. From 1930 to 1940, he was employed at Ambridge, Pennsylvania in the public schools, first as a teacher, and later as Director of Vocational Education. In 1940, he accepted the latter position with the public schools of the City of New Castle, Pennsylvania. He was a member of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution (63752), and is a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, being a descendant of Richard Warren. He is a member of the Masons, the Rotary Club, and the Presbyterian Church. He holds membership in the following professional fraternities: Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Phi Kappa, and Iota Lambda Sigma.

Declaration of Mr. Thomas Gumersall Dep. Assist. to the Commissy. General of Stores and Provisions, born at Leeks in Yorkshire.

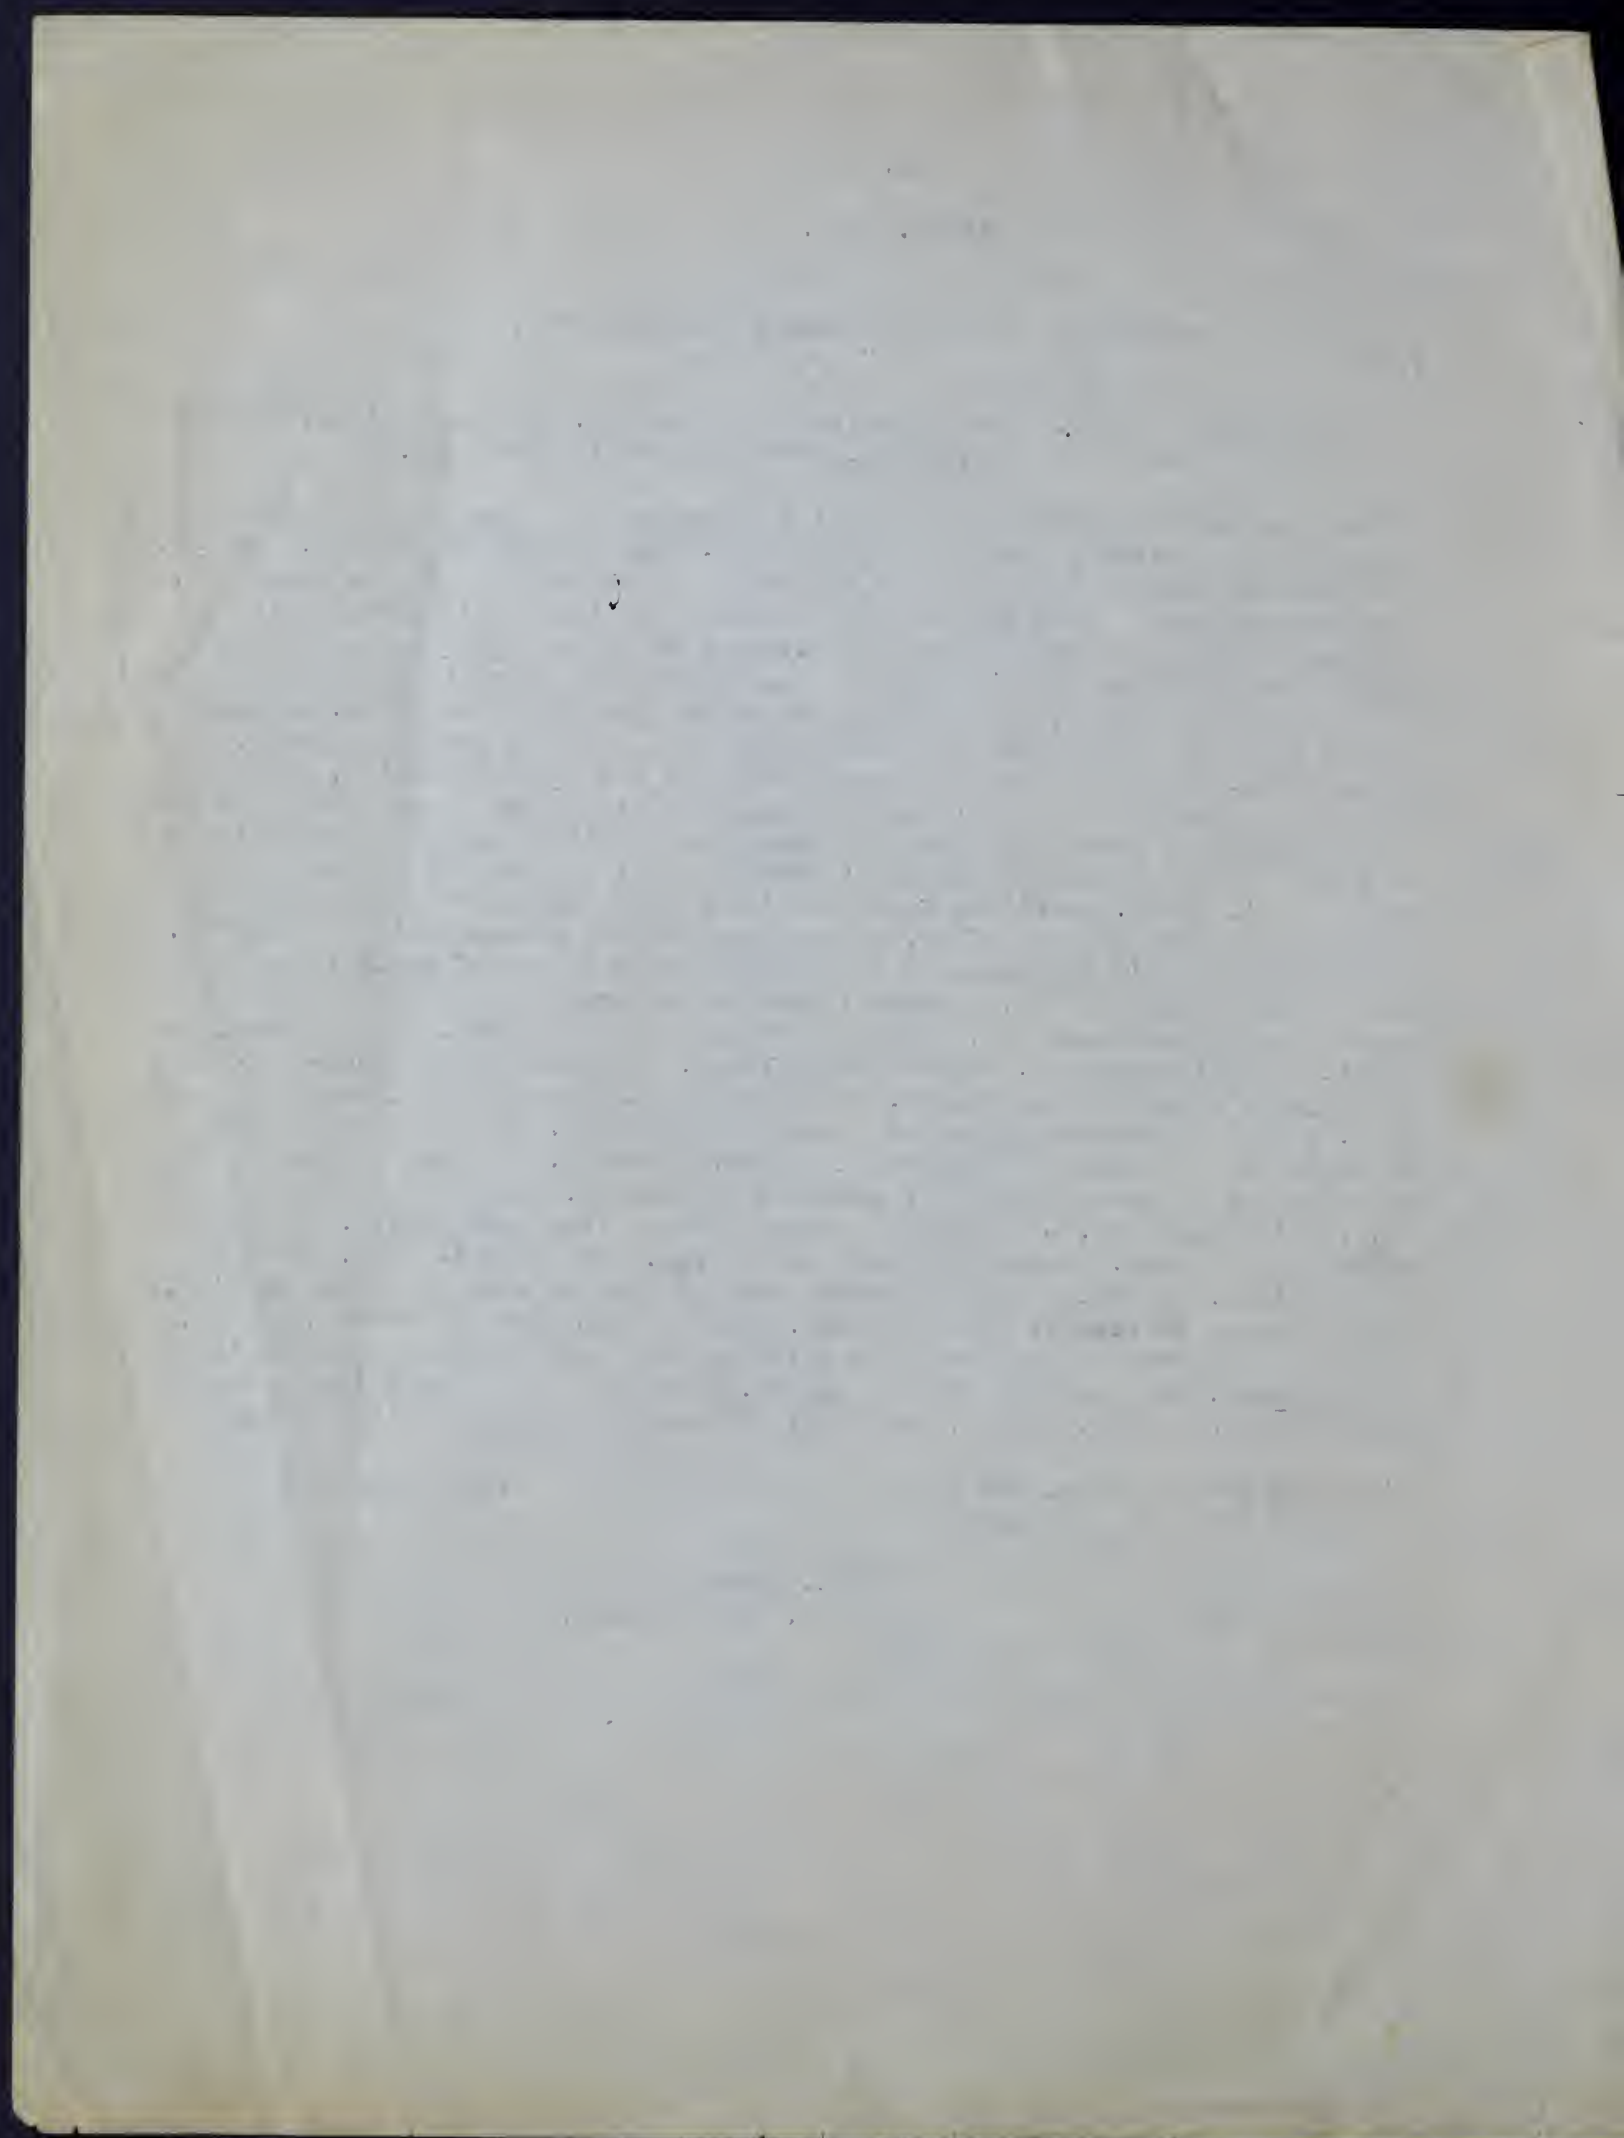

That he left the Mohock River about the beginning of June of the present year, & had been for several weeks in that Country, where he was acquainted. That Sr. John Johnson thro' intelligence he had recd. partly by means of Mr. Gumersall, found it necessary to leave his home & withdraw to Canada, to effect which he procured 3 Indians from the adjacent village as guides thro the woods, & was accompanied by about 130 Highlanders & near 120 other inhabitants of the country attached to government, with whom he proceeded from the house of Mr. McDonnell called Collaghy on or about the 13th of May last for Oswegatchy in Canada. That the said Mr. Gumersall who was instrumental to him on the occasion, accompanied him a few miles further on his rout & then took his leave; after which with much difficulty after secretting himself & marching by night about 5 weeks he arrived at Staten Island (where His Majesty's troops were) on the 19th of July & was by Genl. Howe's favor, thro' the accommodation of John Small Esqr. Major of Brigade, appointed to his present office, in consideration of his sufferings & service, having been oblig'd to abandon a very advantageous branch of trade in which he was largely concerned. Mr. Gumersall further declares that he was credibly informed that John Butler Esq. who was left at Niagara by Coll. Johnson Superintend't. of Indian Affairs, with other officers, to encourage the Indians to joyn His Majesty's troops this season, recd. several letters from Mr. Schyler a rebel Genl. inviting him down & promising him protection &c. but at the same time employed the messenger (an Indian) in case he refused, to bring his scalp, for which he was to have a reward of one hundred dollars. That about 3 days after Sr. John's departure, Lady Johnson recd. a letter from John Butler, Esq. addressed to Sir John, acquainting him that he had, agreeable to Coll. Johnsons instructions, assembled a considerable body of Indians ready to go on service, & only waited to receive news from Col. Johnson or orders to proceed; and Mr. Gumersall believes and has heard that the Indians had proceeded agreeable thereto, & that Lieut. Gray late of the 42d and Mr. Gumersall help'd to raise the men who accompanied Sr. John, and Mr. Gumersall advanced them money on that occasion.

THE JOSIAH CASS FAMILY.

An outstanding character whose name is met repeatedly in Loyalist circles was Josiah Cass. He is best remembered as being the schoolmaster to the refugee children on the camp at Yamachiche, better known to the authorities as Machiche. This camp was located on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River where a stream of the same name emptied into the highway of Quebec about nine miles west of the town of Three Rivers.

Josiah Cass was the fourth generation of his family in America. His great grandfather, John Cass, the emigrant, died at Roxbury, Mass., in 1657. He had married Martha Philbrick about 1648. Their third child, Ebenezer, married Patience Draper on 13 March, 1689. Their eldest son, Moses, a grandson of the emigrant, in his turn, married Mary Haskins 23 January, 1717. Ebenezer and family removed from Roxbury to Connecticut, where they finally settled in Hebron.

Josiah was born in Hebron on 2nd February, 1738, and married Mercy Pomeroy on 27 November, 1760. Within a few years, when the no-man's land to be known as Vermont was opened for settlement, following the end of the war for the conquest of French Canada, the Cass family, with neighbors removed to the virgin land. Josiah settled in Ruport town, and having been a student at Yale for a short time, became town clerk. He obtained a large grant of land, and was prospering when the clouds of war darkened the sky, as the Revolutionary War developed.

During the conflict, which lasted almost eight long years, decisions had to be made. The rebels, being more aggressive, attempted to force all citizens to sign a biased agreement. Many signed, but at the first opportunity, such as the advance of General Burgoyne's army up the Richelieu River, many hastened to join the British force. They were incorporated into regiments. Josiah Cass became a soldier in Lt.-Col. John Peters' Queen's Loyal Americans.

He was present at the Battle of Bennington on 16th August, 1777, and at the Battle of Saratoga on the following 18th September. After the surrender of General Burgoyne on the following 18th October, Josiah Cass, with others of his unit, was allowed to retire to Canada. They must not serve as soldiers during the remainder of the conflict. They could, however, be employed as assistants to the Engineers' Department, building barracks or mending roads, etc. This agreement held until it was discovered that the rebels were not living up to the terms of the convention, these men were re-formed into line regiments for the remainder of the war.

Mrs. Cass and her children crossed over from Vermont to Canada in the summer of 1778 in order to be with her husband, and not to be a burden on the rebels. As there were many such families entering Canada, it was needful to find accomodation and food for them. For this purpose, a refugee camp was established at Yamachiche, a village on the St. Lawrence River, where a stream by the same name emptied its waters into Quebec's lifeline. Its first commandant was Capt. Jephtha Hawley, a relative of Cass. It was opened to the public on 16th Sept., 1778, on which date Cass, his wife, and 4 sons and 2 daughters, reached the camp. Cass was immediately appointed schoolmaster to the children of the camp, a position he held until the closure of the camp in 1783-4.

Several events occurred to the Cass family during their sojourn at Machiche. Their four sons, though in their early teens, became members of Sir John Johnson's 2nd Battalion of the King's Royal Regiment of New York. Mrs. Cass, the former Mercy, daughter of Joseph Pomeroy, died on the 26th May, 1781, and likely was interred in the Camp Cemetery. On 1st ^{APR.} ~~May~~, 1782, Josiah Cass took a second wife. She was Ann McIntyre, a soldier's widow, and the mother of an only son. In the course of time was born a son and three daughters.

When peace finally arrived in 1783 the authorities in Canada still had to face a serious problem. They must decide what to do with the thousands of refugees already in Canada, as well as the more than fifty thousand still cared for in New York City. Many had already returned to England and to the West Indies; many more would eventually seek refuge under the Union Jack. As there were still huge areas of virgin land, it was decided to offer settlement to all who were so inclined, also assistance until they could look after their own needs. Responsible officers were sent to view suitable areas, and to report as to their suitability for settlement. Selected areas included the north shore of the Upper St. Lawrence River, the Bay of Quinte, Nova Scotia, Cape Breton Island, Prince Edward Island, and Gaspé Peninsula.

As each man was given a choice, Josiah Cass opted to settle in Gaspé. He, with his family and three soldier sons and several other refugees embarked in the Brig "St. Peter" on 9th June, 1784, a total of seventeen persons. They were accompanied by the Snow "Liberty," with Captain Pritchard in charge, a total of nine persons. There was also the Hoy "St. Johns," the Brig "Polly," in charge of Mr. Isaac Man, with a total of 33 persons. They were accompanied by four whaleboats, loaded with clothing, provisions, etc., being a grand total of 66 souls.

The Cass party arrived in the Baie de Chaleur on 14th August, landing at Paspébiac, on the north shore of Baie de Chaleurs. Josiah assisted in laying out a town, which was named as New Carlisle. Here Josiah drew 750 acres of land, and proceeded to settle down. But all did not go well. The change in the climate; northerly gales, icebergs, snow storms with deep snowbanks; so unlike the moderation to be found in Connecticut led to an appeal to authorities in Quebec for grant of land on the south bank of the

Dear Dr. Burleigh;

Although I studied your notes carefully I evidently did not realize that when Joseph Pomeroy Cass was given it did not mean that he was a son of Elisha.

This had puzzled me greatly; but it does seem odd that in the book no mention is made of Josiah Cass in connection with Longueuil tp. He may have been a brother of Elisha but Joseph Pomeroy was certainly his son —

Query B-7297 (1) CASS-POMEROY.

Ancestry with full list of children with dates of Josiah Cass, b. New England 1740, died Hawkesbury, Ont., 1837, married Nancy Pomeroy Nov 28, 1760; known son is Joseph Pomeroy Cass, born Middletown Parish, Hartford, Conn., May 28, 1764.

(2) JACKSON-CASS.

Joseph Pomeroy Cass, above, married second, near Hawkesbury, Ont., 1814, Sybel Jackson, born New England Nov. 7, 1785; Her ancestry wanted; she had a brother Josiah, born Vermont Jan. 30, 1789.

Answer B-7297 (1) F. L. E. Dec. 24, 1954 CASS-POMEROY.

In spite of some variations in names and dates, believe these are the wanted data.

Josiah (4) Cass was son of Moses (3) and Mary (Haskins) Cass of Hebron, Conn. (Ebenezer 2, John 1). Josiah was born in Hebron Feb. 2, 1738; died Hawkesbury, Ont., between Aug. 16, 1804 (date of will) and Feb. 12, 1805 (date of probate). He married 1st Nov. 27, 1760, Mercy Pomeroy, of Suffield, Conn., dau. of Joseph and Thankful (Burbank) Pomeroy, born there Apr. 24, 1740, died at Machiche, Quebec, May 16, 1781.

Josiah married 2nd Apr. 1, 1782 at Three Rivers, Que., Anne McIntyre; probably a widow who outlived him. He was an early settler of Bennington, Vt.; was later of Rupert, Vt., his last record there May 18, 1733 (1773?), when he signed minutes of a Town Meeting of that date. He was a Loyalist and fled from Rupert at outbreak of Rev. War, taking with him, it is said, some of the early town records. After that he seems to have been for a short time at Charlotte, N. Y. It is a family tradition that he fought under Burgoyne and after Burgoyne's defeat received permission to enter Canada, where he received a grant of land for his loyalty to the King's cause.

Children, by first wife, were:

1. Josiah, married 1829, Elizabeth Hawes.
2. Joseph Pomeroy, married Susanna Sherman, married 2nd Sybil Jackson.
3. Elihu.
4. Amanda, married Jehiel Hawley.
5. Mercy, born Jan. 6, 1763, married Davis Hawley.

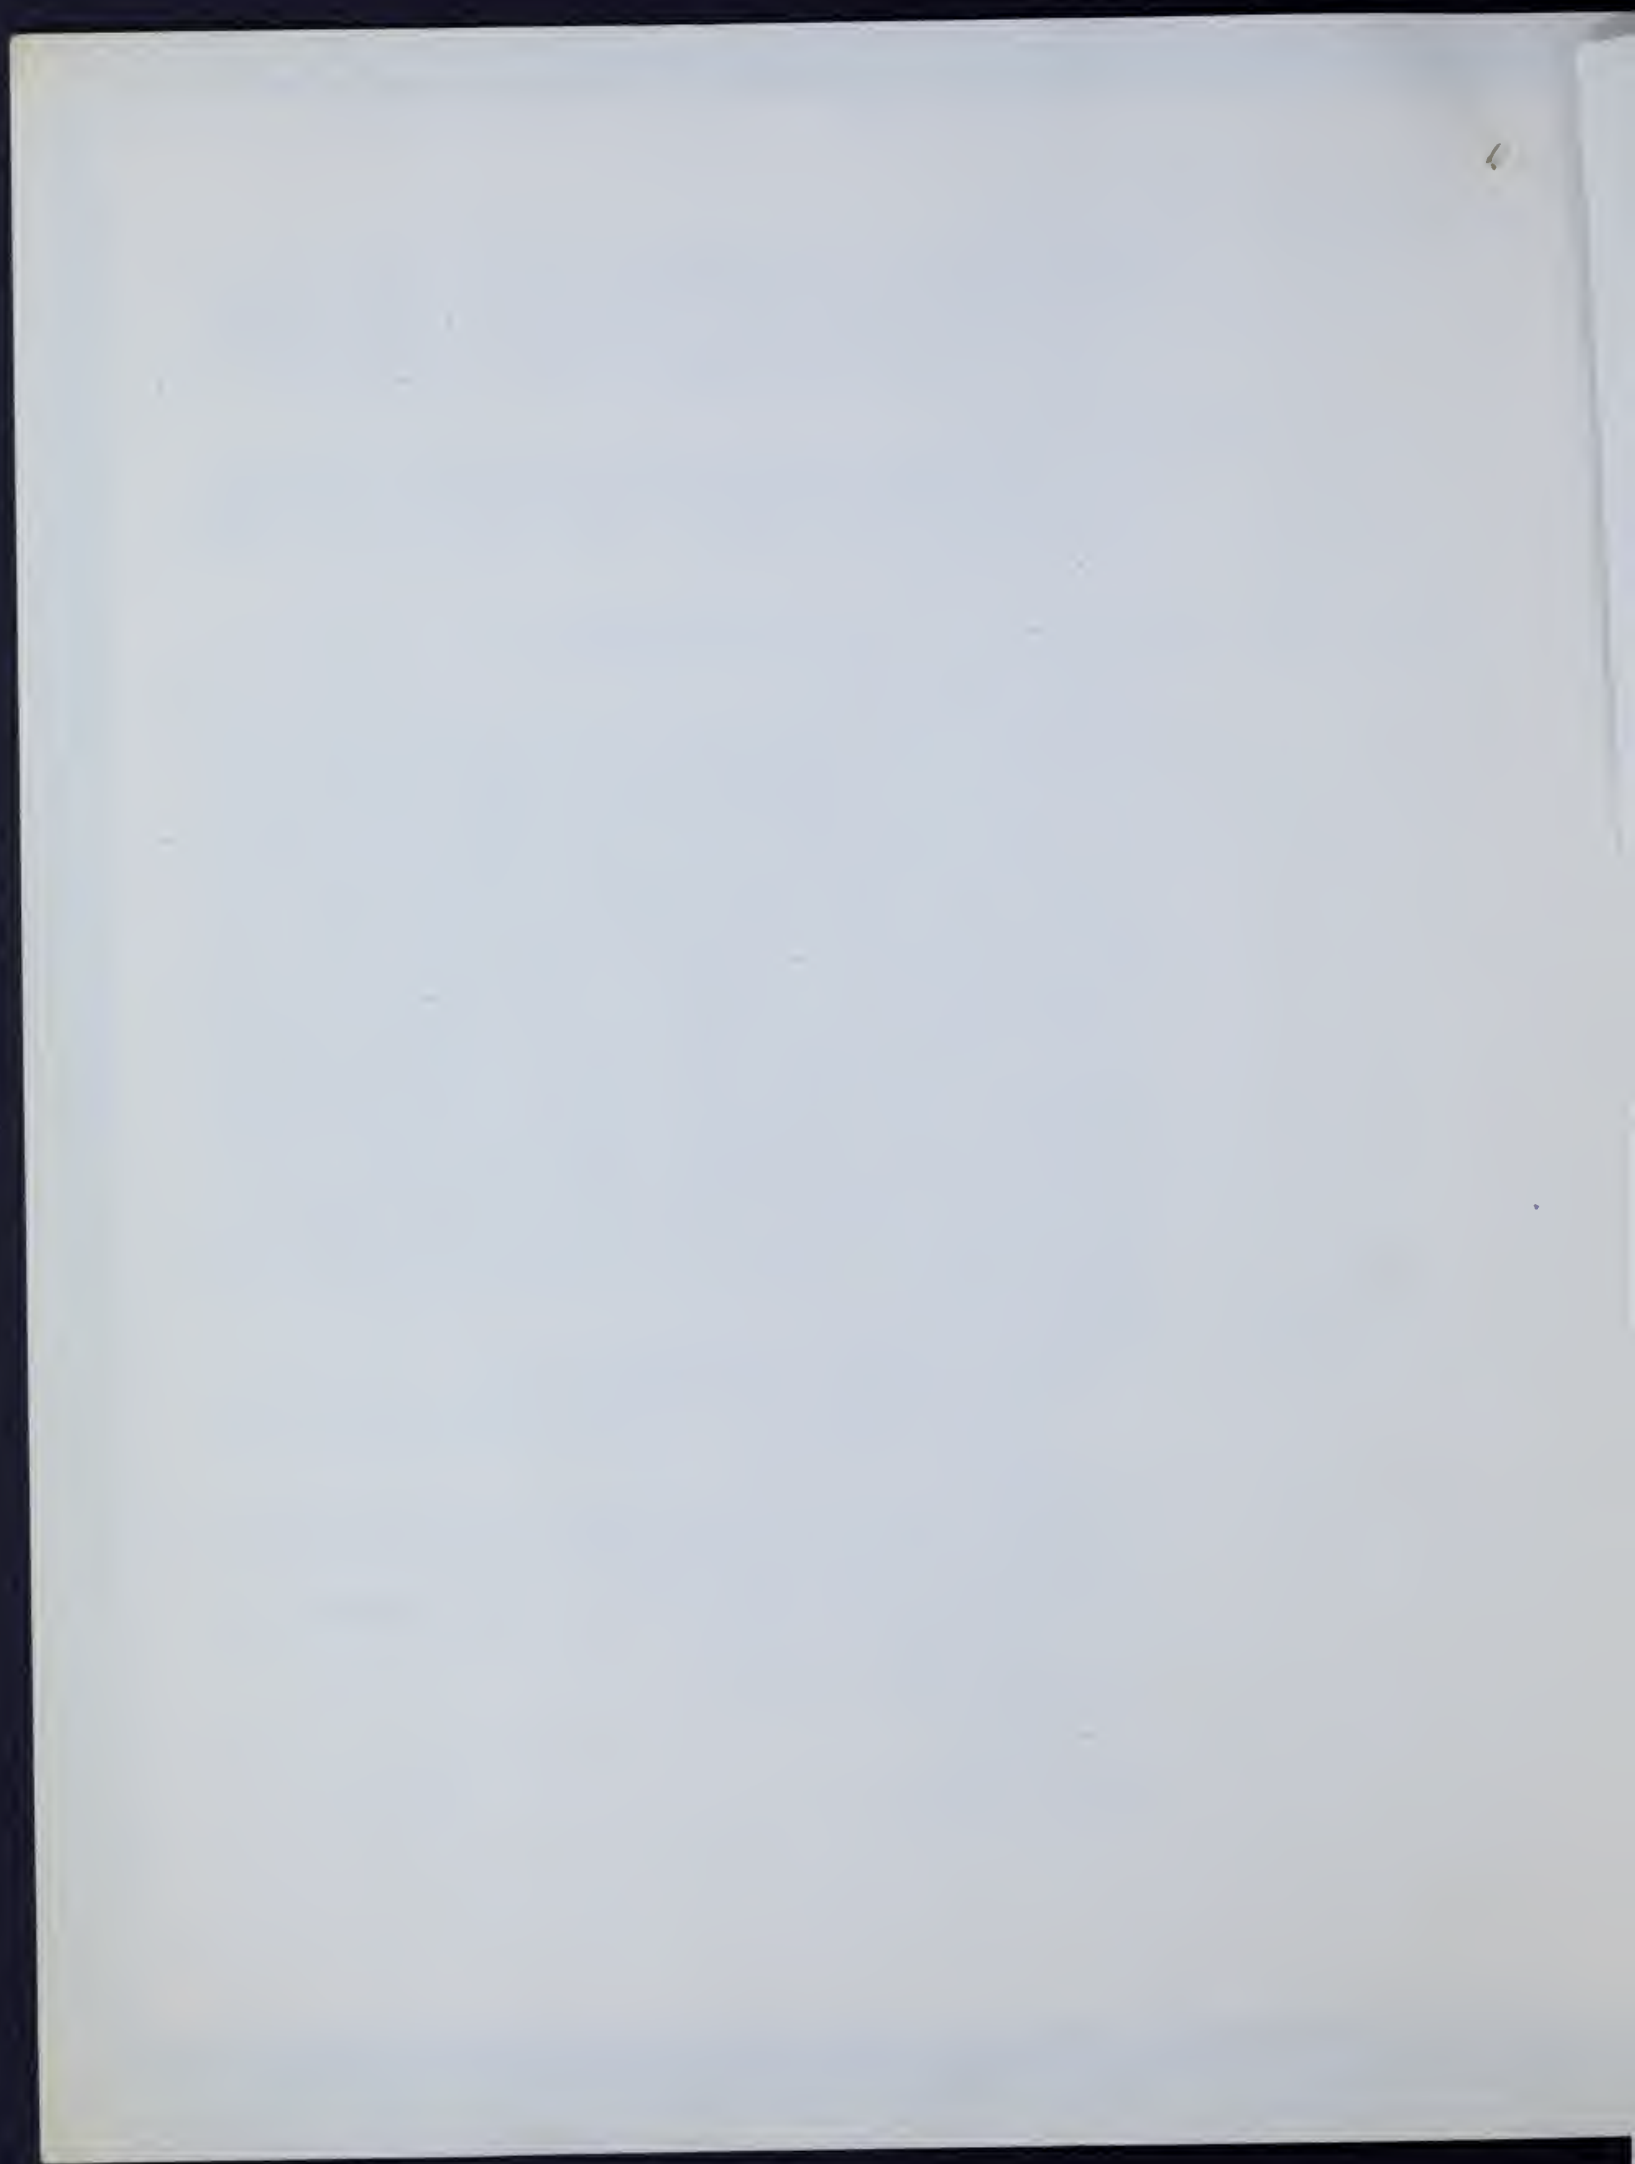

Children, by second wife, were:

6. Mary, born May 1, 1783 at Three Rivers, married Jacob Marston.
7. Moses, born 1791. 1781
8. Elizabeth.
9. Janet.
10. Daniel.

Josiah Cass, U.E.

One of the most important, but ^{was} unrecognized by posterity, persons among the Loyalists was the schoolmaster ~~at the~~ Josiah Cass.

One of the most important Loyalist was Josiah Cass the schoolmaster at the refugee camp at Machiche. His position was a most important one, and, as well, ~~the~~ ^{be} ~~last~~ recognized. His pay for this service, according to Capt. Jephtha Hawley's affidavit ~~of~~ in August, 1780, was seven pounds.

The Cass family in America began with John Cass, who died 6 April 1675, and who married Martha Philbrick. After John's death, Martha married on 30 Nov 1676 William Lyon, Sr., of Roxbury. ^{a community a short distance south} ~~Roxbury~~ of Boston, Mass. The origin of the name is unknown, although another family with the name Cass or Kast came to America in 1710 from the Palatinate in the Rhine Valley in Germany.

Ebenezer, John's elder son, was born 17 July 1676, at Roxbury. He married 13 March 1688/90 at Roxbury, Patience Draper. ^{several years later} ~~their son~~ Moses, in turn, married 23 Jan 1717/8 Mary Hastings. ^{They went with other Roxbury families, on a trip into Connecticut (eastern) and established a colony in Lebanon, and later} ~~Eastern Connecticut~~ at Woodstock. By 1708 they ^{were} in Lebanon, and later in Norwich, Conn., by 1726. His son Moses, in turn, married 23 Jan 1717/8, Mary Hastings. He was the father of Josiah Cass, the Loyalist teacher at Machiche.

Josiah was born in Hebron, Conn. 2 Feb 1738. He married 27 Nov 1760, Mercy Pomeroy, dau. of Joseph & Hannah (Burbank) Pomeroy. She was born 24 Apr 1740, and died 16 May 1781. Josiah had received a good education, and was said to have spent some time at Yale University at New Haven, Conn.

CASS

Josiah Cass U.S.

among the Loyalists

One of the most important, but unrecognized by posterity, was the schoolmaster in the Loyalist refugee camp at Machiche, Que., ~~known~~ Josiah Cass the schoolmaster at the Loyalist refugee Camp at Machiche. He was housed the women and children, as well as the elderly and sick. This camp was located on the north bank of the St Lawrence River, fifteen miles west of Three Rivers and not far across the river from the military camp at Sorel.

Josiah Cass belonged to a very old family, the first in America being John Cass. He married Martha Philbrick, ~~born~~ died on 6 April 1675, and the following year she married William Lyon, Jr. of Roxbury, ^{a student of Harvard}. John's children were named in Martha's will, dated 2 Mar 1684.

Their elder son, Ebenezer, was born 17 July 1671. He with a number of Roxbury people, removed to Woodstock Conn., and in 1706 to Lebanon, ~~Conn.~~, now New London, Conn. Ebenezer later, in 1720, was of Norwich, Conn. He had married in Roxbury, on 13 March 1689/90, Patience Draper.

Ebenezer's elder son, Moses, married 23 Jan 1717/8, Mary Huskins, and were the parents of Josiah, born in Hebron, Conn. on 2 Feb 1738. Josiah married 27 Nov 1760 Mercy Pomeroy who had been born 24 Apr 1740, the daughter of Joseph and Thankful (Burbank) Pomeroy.

standing to their great principle
The Union of the Empire!

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

By now you and Mrs. Burleigh will be settled and getting used to apartment living. It was a great upheaval selling your home and many of your belongings and moving from the area where you had lived for so long and where where you had been an integral part of the community. Life is continual change, more so for some persons than others. This change should be good for you both, less responsibility and fewer possessions to look after.

Now you can continue with your writing and can more readily concentrate on it. Every period of life has something specific for us to do. Many people when they get older and cannot carry on with the work and interests they used to ^{have} give up and vegetate. You do not belong in that category Your writings are a contribution to Loyalist history and only you have the knowledge of the area you are writing about.

I intend to get out from under much of the work I have been doing for the U.E.L. Association and get on with my own project of researching and writing sketches of the Loyalists who settled in my native Glengarry. This kind of thing has never been done for that County. I find it fascinating and discover bits and pieces of history that never found their way into the history books.

I enjoyed the bus trips to the Mohawk Valley and other places of interest this past two summers. Seeing the areas where the Loyalists came from gives one a better idea of their problems and a better understanding of their history. You did something very worthwhile in planning and carrying out these trips.

Please do not take the trouble to reply to this letter. It is not necessary I simply wished to let you know you are thought of and by many more people than you may be aware of and please continue with the writing.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Blaw

Oliver Church must have been a responsible person, as attested by Sir John Johnson ^{one of his} in a communication to General Haldimand when recommending ~~speaks~~ ^{speaks} highly of his capabilities in these words

Much happened to the Cass family during their sojourn at Machiche. As has been pointed out they were accompanied by 4 sons and 2 daughters. The sons, though in their early teens, became members of Sir John Johnsons 2nd Battalion of the Kings Royal Rangers of New York. Mrs Cass, the former Mercy, daughter of Joseph Pomeroy, died ~~late~~ on 26th May 1781, and was likely buried in the Camp Cemetery. On 1 May 1783, Josiah Cass took a second wife. She was Ann McIntyre, a Haldimands widow with one son. To them were born ~~an added~~ ^a son and three daughters.

When peace finally came in 1783, one problem faced the authorities in Canada. This was what to do with the several thousand Loyalist soldiers and their families who were now discharged and looking for a place to live. They had lost their homes in the rebel colonies and were being fed and clothed at government expense

2. Joseph Pomeroy, born 28 May 1764, and named for his maternal grandfather Pomeroy. He accompanied the family to Vermont and later to Machiche, Quebec. He also served for three years with Sir John Johnson's 2nd Battalion, K.R.R.N.Y. He married ^{1st} Susannah Sherman and 2nd in 1814 Abigail Jackson. He finally settled in the Hawkesbury area.
 3. Elisha, the third son, was also a Loyalist soldier with his two brothers.
 4. Amanda, married 13th March, 1792, Philip Hawley.
 5. Mercy: born 15 Jan., 1763 in Hebron. She accompanied the family on its journeys to Vermont, Gamache & Gaspé. After returning to Upper Canada, she was married in Bath, Ontario, on the 13th March 1792, to Davis Hawley, U.E. a son of Capt. Jephtha Hawley, U.E. Her descendants will be found in the Bay of Quinte shores.

Children of the second marriage

2. Moses, born in 1781

3. Elizabeth

Ottawa River, to the north of Cornwall. This appeal was made in 1788 and having been approved, the Cuss family left Gaspe in the Fall of 1790. ~~Having~~ ~~headed Montreal, they~~ Only one member of the family, namely Josiah, Jr., remained in Gaspe. He had married and his bride would not leave her family, so Josiah remained behind.

Having travelled up the St. Lawrence to Montreal, they hired French drivers to carry them and their possessions through the snow to what was to become Hawkesbury. Having bought cattle ^{after their} arrival in Montreal, they herded them behind the sleighs to their new ~~home~~ land. Primitive. "A small ^{temporary} dwelling and shelter for cattle were erected. ^{An item reported that} The cattle were fed on brush from trees and boiled oats until spring opened." The family prospered. Josiah served as Justice of the Peace until his death and often officiated at weddings and funerals. In the autumn of 1804, he contracted an ailment which resulted in his death. His will was drawn 16 Aug., 1804, and probated on 18 February of the following year. It is said that "by his will he bequeathed the bulk of his property to the children of his second family, at which his children of the first marriage, being displeased, left home."

His two daughters, by the first wife married two cousins named Hawley. One daughter, Mercy, married David Hawley, the ceremony being performed in Bath by Rev. John Langdon on officer in charge of the camp and Josiah Cass, ^{his ~~son~~ relative} was appointed the schoolmaster. His ^{duties} problem was to teach the children gathered into the camp from many sections of the rebellious American provinces. The idea must have been a success, as Josiah taught this school ^{Sept} for 1778 to 1784, when the camp was closed. During these years ^{his} the three older sons joined the Army in 1780 and continued in service ^{with the Kings Royal Rangers} until the peace arrived.

When it was necessary to settle these refugees on virgin lands settlement was to be regular and orderly, preferably by military companies or units, with a ^{qualified, reputable} ~~responsible~~ officer responsible for proper management. ^{of the new there were} Several areas were available and each person had a choice. Josiah Cass and family chose settlement in Gaspé. By this time Josiah had lost his first wife at Madeline on 16 May 1781 ^{on 14 Apr 1783} and had married Ann McIntyre, a widow with one son ~~on~~ 1 Apr 1783. Thus Josiah was accompanied by second wife and four children as well as the three soldier sons, Josiah Junior, Pomeroy and Elisha Cass. The group departed for Charles Bay aboard the Brig "St Peter" on 9 June 1784 ^{with} a total of seventeen. Accompanying them ^{was} in the sloop "Liberty" with 23 refugees as well as the sloop "St. Johns" and four whaleboats with a total of 66 persons. ^{on 14 Aug 1784}

On arrival at Paspébiac, the party proceeded to lay out a town, which they named Carlisle, ^{later to be} ~~now~~ known as Paspébiac. However, the group was dissatisfied with the land, climate & accommodations and four years ^{Josiah Cass} later made application for lands on the north shore of the Ottawa River. As a result in 1790 Josiah his family and his grown sons, except Josiah ^{whose wife wished to live near her relatives}, returned to Quebec & later Montreal. Here in depths of winter they hired sleighs to transport the party while they drove cattle through the snow to new home at Hawkesbury.

THE JOSIAH CASS FAMILY.

An outstanding character, whose name is met repeatedly in Loyalist circles was Josiah Cass. He is well remembered as being the schoolmaster in the refugee camp at Yamachiche, more often called Machiche. This camp located on the north side of the St. Lawrence River at the outlet of a river of the same name about nine miles west of the city of Three Rivers, Quebec.

Josiah Cass was a fourth generation American. His great grandfather was John Cass, the emigrant, who died in Roxbury, Mass., in 1657. He had married Patience Draper ~~and 13 March~~ about 1648. Their third child proceeded to establish himself. However the situation left much to be desired, and six years later the family decided to seek land on the Ottawa River north of Cornwall in Upper Canada. They returned by boat to Montreal late in 1790. It was in March before the family departed by sleigh to their new lands in Hawkesbury. Driving their cattle as they struggled to deep snow.

Gaspe surveyed by Capt Justice Sheppard and approved for settlement.

History of Argentuil

P297 Josiah Cass at first settled at Baie des Chaleurs. There his wife died, leaving four sons & two daughters. He again married ... by his second marriage, he had one son and three daughters, to whom he bequeathed the bulk of his property, at which his children by the first marriage, being displeased, left home. Two settled in Gresham's Bay, and Daniel, the youngest, came to the second concession in Chatham (in Argentuil?)

My Mother writes: Of his birthplace, youth and early manhood we have no account. The above dates of birth and marriage, ~~some~~ etc, are recorded by himself in a small Bible now in possession of the Chatman family. Considering and comparing the traditions still existing among different branches of the family I have inferred that some of his youthful years he must have been spent at Gale.

Referring to another tradition -- that he was present at the siege of Quebec one thinks, that is possible, it is impossible. He seems to have lived at different times in Conn; Vermont and N.Y. In 1773, he states, he was living as a farmer in Charlotte Co. N.Y. and in 1777 joined Burgoyne which is now N.Y.

and taken to the Chaudiere to explore the country and to report on the military situation reported unfavorably and some reports received so he was, with some other men, they arrived at the Chaudiere, in 1778, and were captured.

Josiah and his family with the exception of the eldest son Josiah Jr. who had married and whose wife did not wish to leave her family - set out on their journey to their new home. "We cannot tell how the family travelled but probably by sea to Quebec or some other part of the St. L. river, but on the western end of their route they employed habitants and their teams to bring them and their effects to their destination; purchased some cattle on route and drove them before them. Leaving March, 1790 - snow very deep - built a small temporary dwelling and shelter for cattle. The cattle were fed on brush from trees and boiled oaks until the spring opened.

THE JOSIAH CASS FAMILY.

An outstanding character whose name is met repeatedly in Loyalist circles was Josiah Cass. He is best remembered as being the schoolmaster to the refugee children on the camp at Yamachiche, better known to the authorities as Machiche. This camp was located on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River where a stream of the same name emptied into the highway of Quebec about nine miles west of the town of Three Rivers.

Josiah Cass was the fourth generation of his family in America. His great grandfather, John Cass, the emigrant, died at Roxbury, Mass., in 1657. He had married Martha Philbrick about 1648. Their third child, Ebenezer, married Patience Draper on 13 March, 1689. Their eldest son, Moses, a grandson of the emigrant, in his turn, married Mary Haskins 23 January, 1717. Ebenezer and family removed from Roxbury to Connecticut where they finally settled in Hebron.

Josiah was born in Hebron on 2nd February, 1738, and married Mercy Pomeroy on 27 November, 1760. Within a few years, when the no-man's land to be known as Vermont was opened for settlement, following the end of the war for the conquest of French Canada, the Cass family, with neighbors removed to the virgin land. Josiah settled in Ruport town, and having been a student at Yale for a short time, became town clerk. He obtained a large grant of land, and was prospering when the clouds of war darkened the sky, as the Revolutionary War developed.

During the conflict, which lasted almost eight long years, decisions had to be made. The rebels being more aggressive attempted to force all citizens to sign a biased agreement. Many signed, but at the first opportunity, such as the advance of General Burgoyne's army up the Richelieu River, many hastened to join the British force. They were incorporated into regiments. Josiah Cass became a soldier in Lt.-Col. John Peters' Queen's Loyal Americans.

When peace finally arrived in 1763 the authorities in Canada still had to face a serious problem. They must decide what to do with the thousands of refugees already in Canada, as well as the more than fifty thousand still cared for in New York City. Many had already returned to England and to the West Indies; many more would eventually seek refuge under the Union Jack. As there were still huge areas of virgin land, it was decided to offer settlement to all who were so inclined, also assistance until they could look after their own needs. Responsible officers were sent to view suitable areas, and to report as to their suitability for settlement. Selected areas included the north shore of the Upper St. Lawrence River, the Bay of Quinte, Nova Scotia, Cape Breton Island, Prince Edward Island, and Gaspé Peninsula.

As each man was given a choice, Josiah Cass opted to settle in Gaspé. He, with his family and three soldier sons and several other refugees embarked in the Brig "St. Peter" on 9th June, 1764, a total of seventeen persons. They were accompanied by the Snow "Liberty," with Captain Pritchard in charge, a total of nine persons. There was also the Hoy "St. Johns," the Brig "Polly," in charge of Mr. Isaac Man, with a total of 33 persons. They were accompanied by four whaleboats, loaded with clothing, provisions, etc., being a grand total of 66 souls.

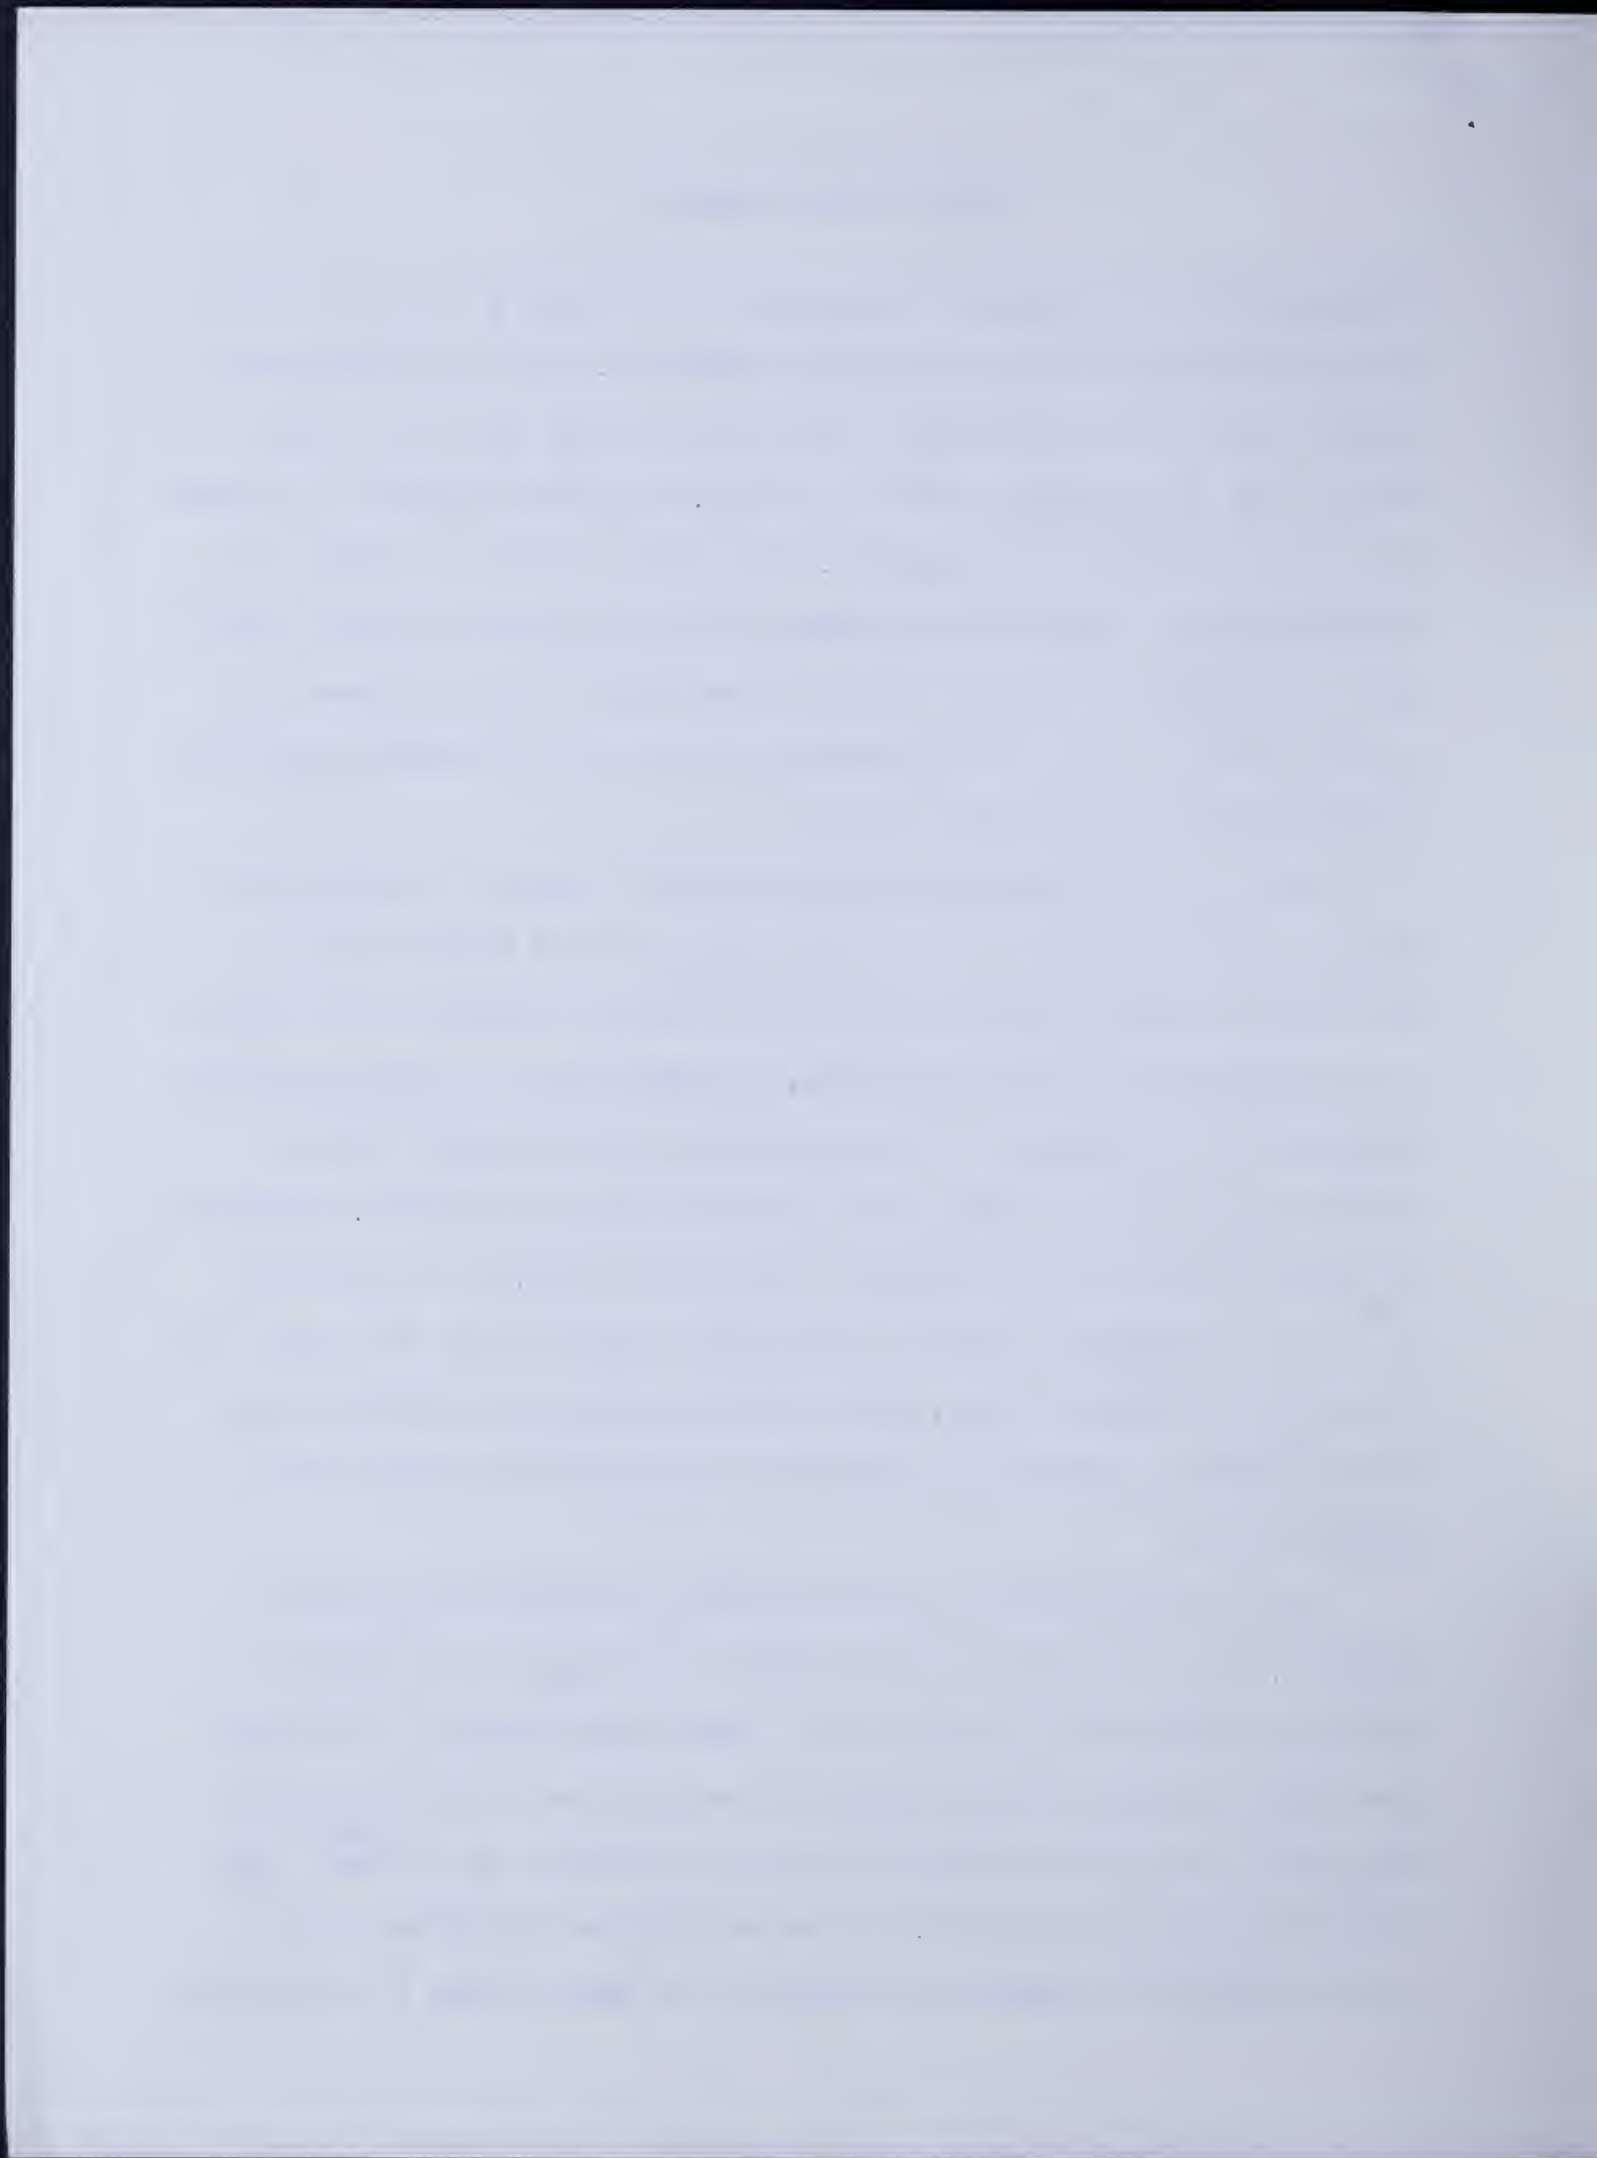

The Cass party arrived in the Baie de Chaleur on 14th August, landing at Paspebiac, on the north shore of Baie de Chaleurs. Josiah assisted in laying out a town, which was named as New Carlisle. Here Josiah drew 750 acres of land, and proceeded to settle down. But all did not go well. The change in the climate; northerly gales, icebergs, snow storms with deep snowbanks; so unlike the moderation to be found in Connecticut led to an appeal to authorities in Quebec for grant of land on the south bank of the

He was present at the Battle of Bennington on 16th August, 1777, and at the Battle of Saratoga on the following 13th September. After the surrender of General Burgoyne on the following 18th October, Josiah Cass, with others of his unit, was allowed to retire to Canada. They must not serve as soldiers during the remainder of the conflict. They could, however, be employed as assistants to the Engineers' Department, building barracks or mending roads, etc. This agreement held until it was discovered that the rebels were not living up to the terms of the convention, these men were re-formed into line regiments for the remainder of the war.

Mrs. Cass and her children crossed over from Vermont to Canada in the summer of 1778 in order to be with her husband, and not to be a burden on the rebels. As there were many such families entering Canada, it was needful to find accomodation and food for them. For this purpose, a refugee camp was established at Yamachiche, a village on the St. Lawrence River, where a stream by the same name emptied its waters into Quebec's lifeline. Its first commandant was Capt. Jephtha Hawley, a relative of Cass. It was opened to the public on 16th Sept., 1778, on which date Cass, his wife, and 4 sons and 2 daughters, reached the camp. Cass was immediately appointed schoolmaster to the children of the camp, a position he held until the closure of the camp in 1783-4.

Several events occurred to the Cass family during their sojourn at Machiche. Their four sons, though in their early teens, became members of Sir John Johnson's 2nd Battalion of the King's Royal Regiment of New York. Mrs. Cass, the former Mercy, daughter of Joseph Pomeroy, died on the 26th May, 1781, and likely was interred in the Camp Cemetery. On 1st ^{Apr}~~May~~, 1782, Josiah Cass took a second wife. She was Ann McIntyre, a soldier's widow, and the mother of an only son. In the course of time was born a son and three

Ascent of the St Lawrence in 1789

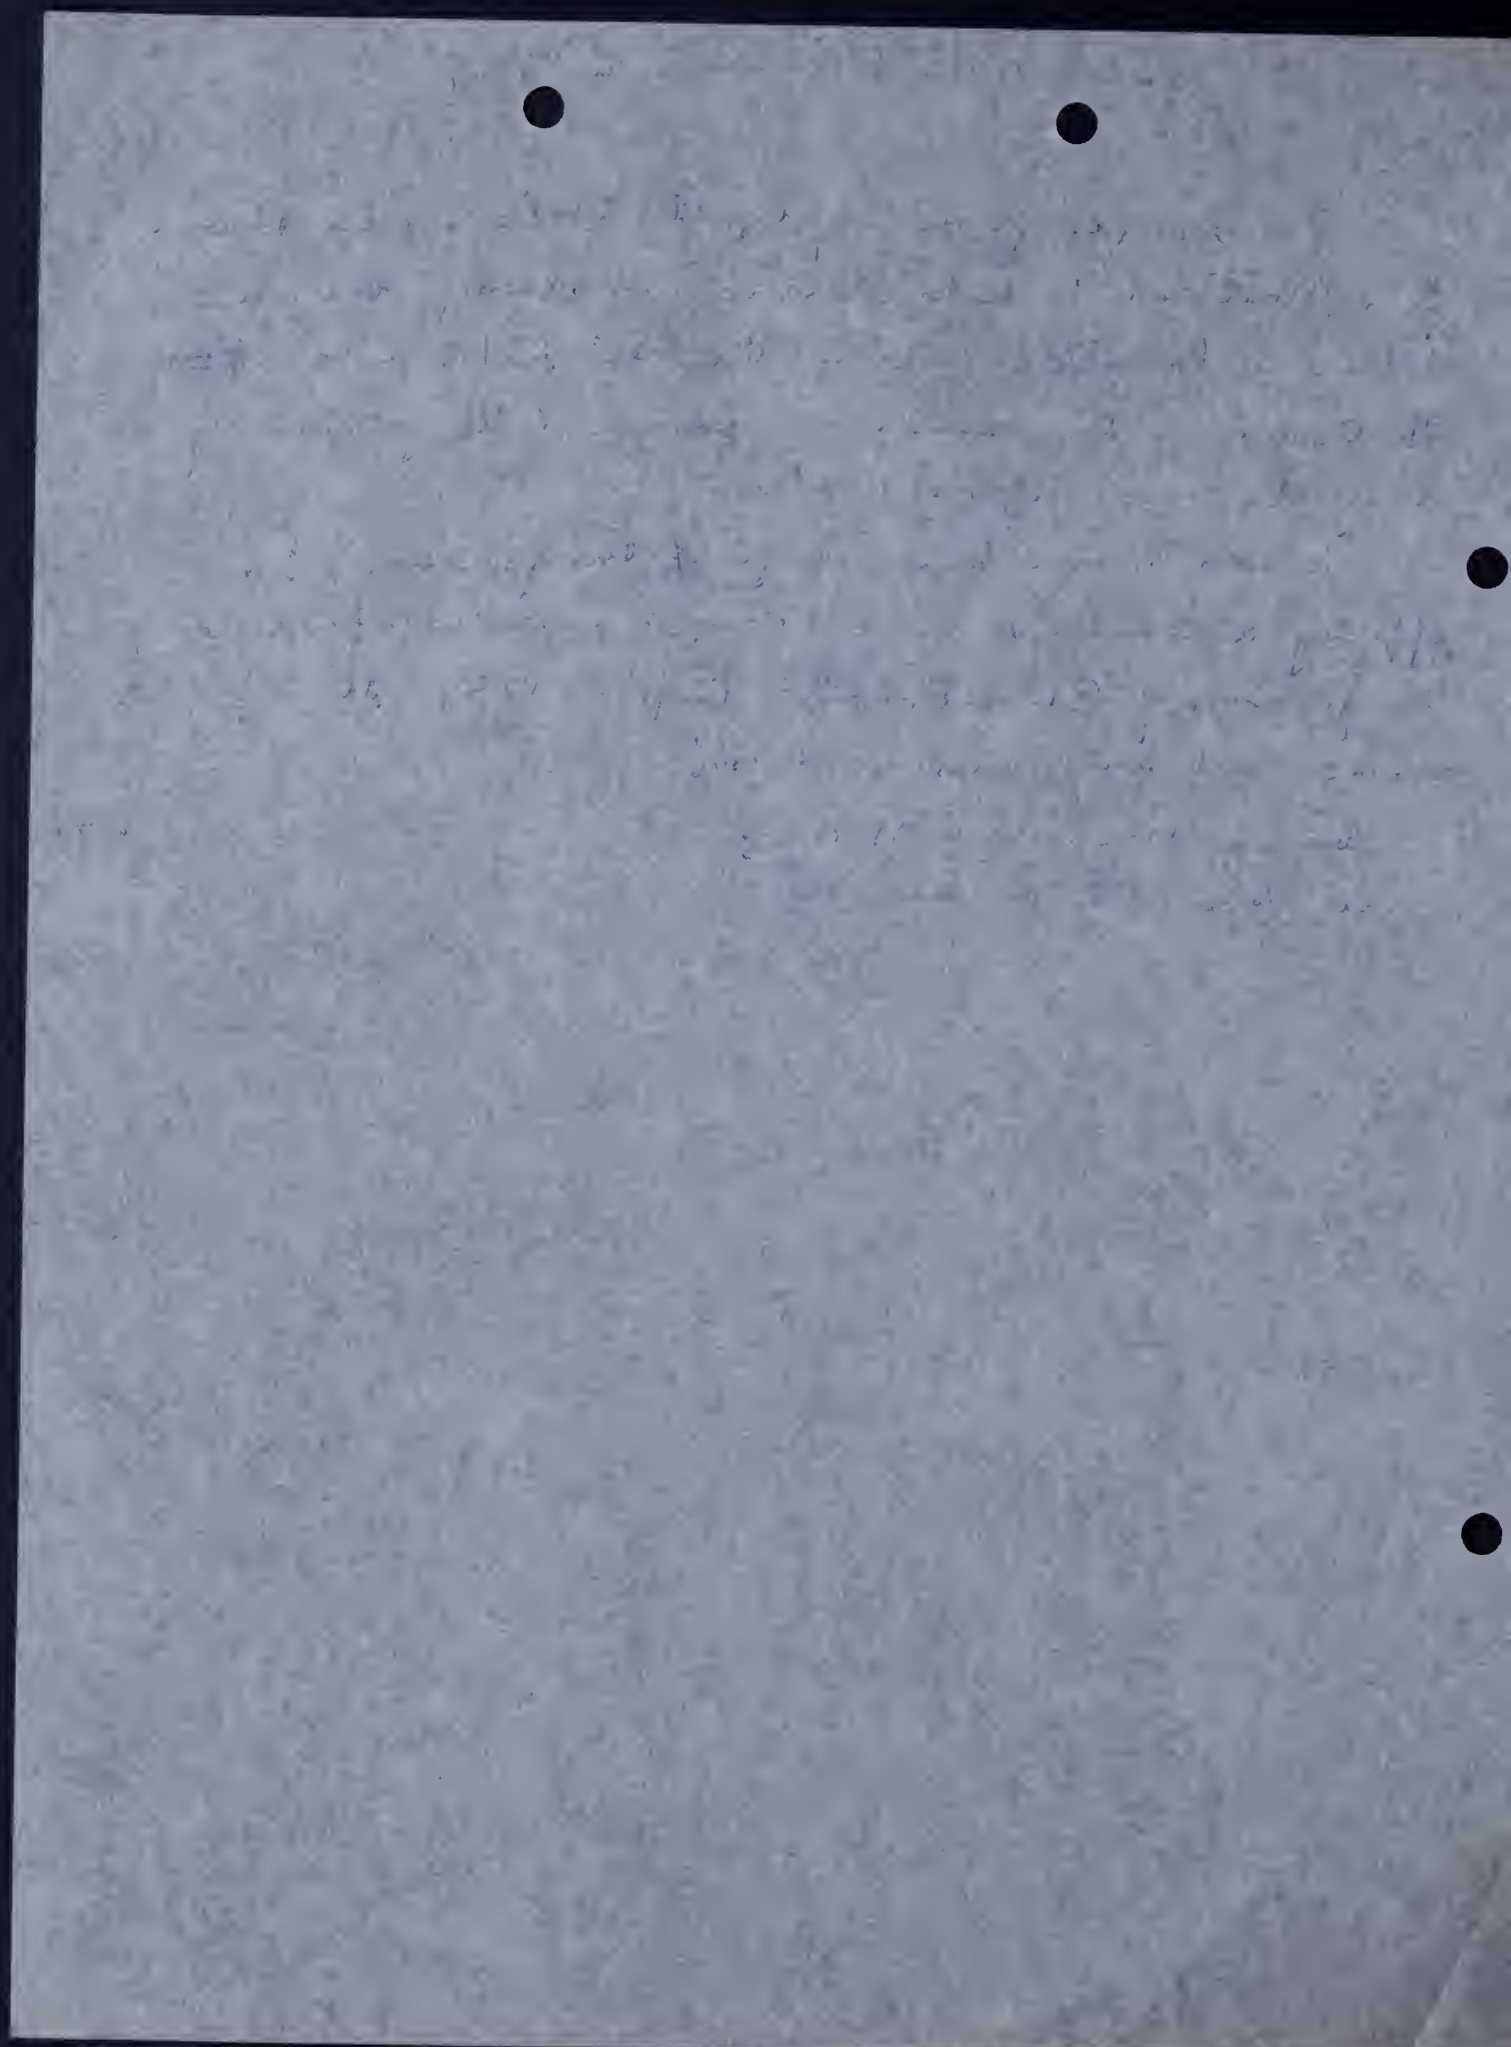

The rough journey up the St Lawrence River from Montreal to Lake Ontario has always been a deterrent to settlement in the Great Lakes area. ~~That~~ So that any discussion or record of the journey up river becomes of great interest.

To add to our knowledge of the journey, I am offering a resume, or a recording of essential features of the journey of Anne Powell's trip in 1789. She begins the account with these words: ⁷⁵⁻ 396

Dear Members:

This week I had a find at the Ontario Archives which I must share with all Loyalists interested in the Bay of Quinte settlement.

It has generally been given out that the dates for Major Peter Van Alstine who led the Adolphustown group are 1747-1811. His date of death was probably assumed from the fact that his estate placed an advertisement to sell the Glenora Mills and the property at the Lake-on-the-Mountain in the Kingston Gazette in the year 1811.

However a document filed with the Major's will when it was probated on Nov. 24, 1800 which gives Power of Attorney to Alexander Van Alstine from his sister Alada Myers (sp. Meyers) and his brother Cornelius Van Alstine, says, "... and whereas the said Peter Van Alstine is since dead". This paper was signed before Thos. Dorland J. P. and witnessed by Allen Clarke and Joseph Carnahan on November 15, 1800.

The facts are, then, that the Major was alive when he signed ~~the~~ his will on May 10, 1800, before witnesses Thos. Dorland, Robert McDowall and Abraham Maybe and dead before mid-November of the same year.

May I count on you to make this know to interested persons?

Yours sincerely,
